

Boomi Integration Cloud

Connect Every Part of Your Business to Transform How You Do Business

Your business depends on the ability to get information where it's needed, whether interacting with your customers, partners or inside your organization. But too often, your business applications are disconnected information silos that result in manual processes and inconsistent data, hindering your organization's ability to meet market demand and stay ahead of your competition.

The Boomi Integration Cloud is a comprehensive solution for moving, managing and governing information across your applications and data repositories, whether cloud-based or on-premises.

Boomi's platform as a service provides a single environment with a unified suite of offerings, accelerating your ability to integrate every part of your business.

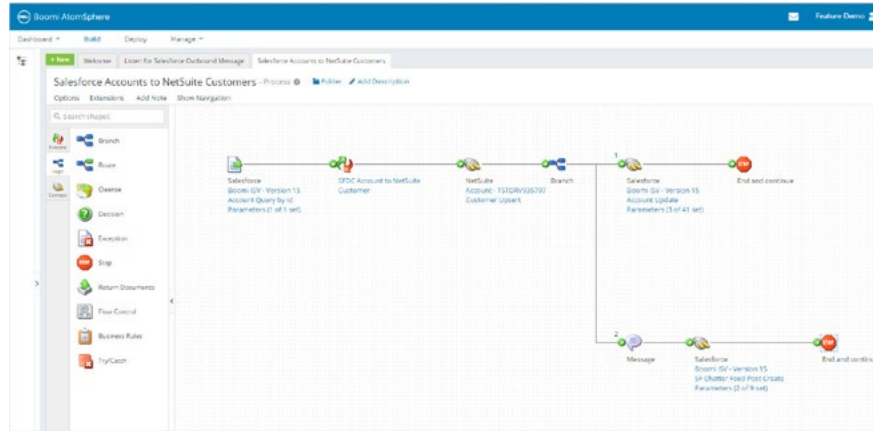

Boomi AtomSphere

The faster, easier way to integrate your applications

The traditional method for integrating applications is through the use of code-based developer tools. Boomi AtomSphere provides all the capabilities of legacy integration tools in a visual, drag-and-drop, online interface.

AtomSphere dramatically reduces the time required to configure and deploy integrations, while at the same time making all your integrations available for re-use, testing and monitoring.

4 Ways AtomSphere Improves Your Ability to Integrate Applications:

Boomi Suggest – the industry’s first crowd-sourced suggestion wizard for data mapping. By anonymously indexing millions of data maps and tens of thousands of functions created in AtomSphere, Boomi Suggest recommends and automatically generates maps for new integration processes.

Boomi Resolve – automatically suggests resolutions for common error messages based on contributions to the Boomi knowledge base from the Boomi support team and user community.

Boomi Assure – delivers automated regression testing to Boomi customers. In a single click from the Boomi console, you can submit your integration processes and test data, which will be run against every future AtomSphere release.

The Boomi Atom– our patented, lightweight runtime engine. The Atom allows your integrations to be deployed wherever needed: in Boomi’s Atom Cloud; in a public or private cloud; or on-premises. If needed, multiple Atoms can be clustered as a Boomi Molecule to provide a high-scale, distributed processing runtime.

Boomi EDI

Comprehensive cloud-based B2B integration

Boomi EDI allows you to manage a trading partner network of any size using the scalable and secure Boomi platform.

- Uses the same visual integration configuration and data mapping as AtomSphere.
- Supports the X12, EDIFACT and HL7 standards, providing a library of EDI document types that can be easily mapped to transfer data to or from your back-end systems.
- Connects to trading partners through industry-standard options – AS2 (Drummond certified), FTP/Secure FTP, or Web Services using HTTP or SOAP.

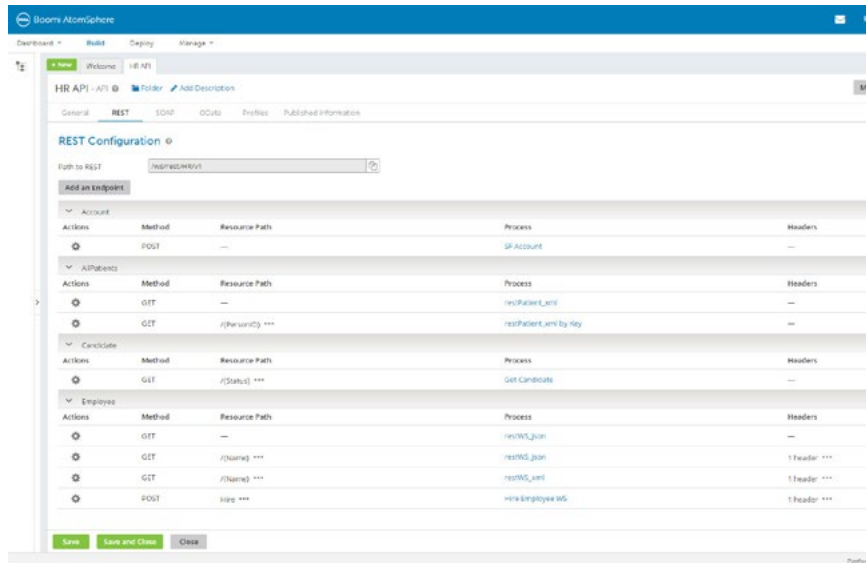

Boomi API Management

Everything you need to create, publish and manage your APIs

Boomi API Management provides a centralized, online environment to manage all your APIs through their entire lifecycle.

- Enables rapid creation, publication, accessibility, and versioning of APIs.
- Unlocks legacy systems data for easy consumption by new applications.
- Extends the reach of enterprise information and services to external business constituents (vendors, partners and customers).
- Provides a unified platform for management - monitoring of APIs and application integrations.

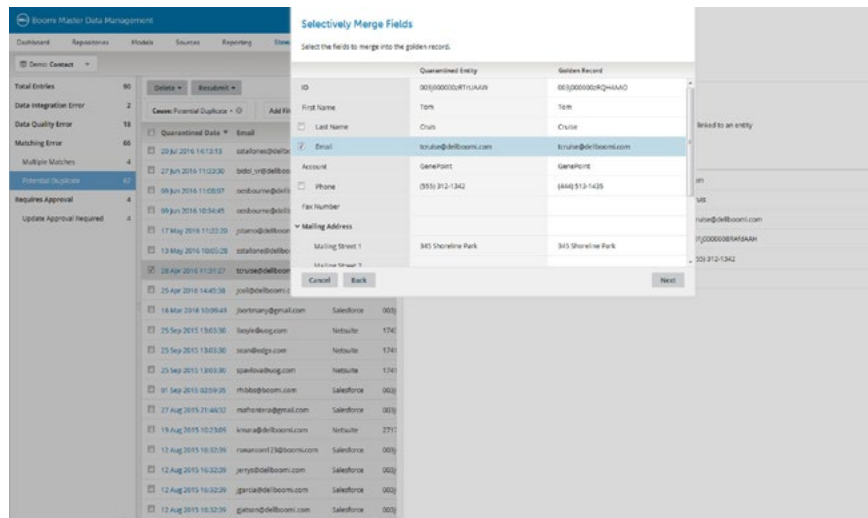

Boomi Master Data Management

Ensure all your applications have accurate, validated data

Boomi Master Data Management (MDM) provides a complete solution to represent data consistently across your organization.

- Enables your data stewards to easily model, match, synchronize, cleanse and enrich data across domains.
- Allows for creation of business rules to alert your team and assist with resolving duplicates, fixing data entry issues, and correcting erroneous data.
- Addresses the three components of a unified data management strategy: application integration, data governance controls, and domain-specific data quality services.
